stolen vehicles, for example, and you take where there is a one man police car operator, it is very difficult for him with a car coming against him for him to turn around and to see the rear license plate going the other way, if he is looking for a number. It wouldn't be quite so bad where there is two in a car but I think, if it is one bit safer, if it is one bit easier to detect an automobile with two plates on, that we certainly ought to leave those two plates on there. We hadn't for a few dollars, this pittance of less money, ought not to be a factor in determining the detectability of automobiles, particularly with stolen cars. I think if we could have them lit up like a Christmas tree why the police would be catching more of them but let's not take off one of the plates and make it more difficult.

SPEAKER: The Chair recognizes Senator Frank Lewis.

SENATOR F. LEWIS: Surprisingly enough, I rise to support the Dworak amendment. He is beginning to show a little promise. Mr. Chairman, obviously, the one license plate is not unique. Most states, as I recall it, I shouldn't say most because I don't have the facts on that, but many, many states have the one license plate. So Senator Stull, you have got your savings now. Your Highway Trust Fund is safe. Perpetuating, we have got one license plate. The citizens don't have to pay any more for this privilege of purchasing two pieces of metal. That's amazing, Senator Dworak, that you came up with that compromise because it is really good and I support it.

SPEAKER: The Chair recognizes Senator Syas.

SENATOR SYAS: I just wish to ask a question of Senator Dworak.

SPEAKER: Senator Dworak, do you yield? Senator Syas wants to ask you a question.

SENATOR SYAS: I have been, in my life, on the highway and in town, behind many trucks. I am not anti-truck but how and the heck do you see a trucks license plates from the back? I want to know.

SENATOR DWORAK: How do I see a truck's license plates?

SENATOR SYAS: Yes.

SENATOR DWORAK: We are not talking about trucks. We are talking about cars.

SENATOR SYAS: Well, doesn't this apply to trucks too?

SENATOR DWORAK: No, we are only talking about passenger cars.

SENATOR SYAS: This doesn't apply to truck license plates at all?

SENATOR DWORAK: It is not my understanding. Does it Senator? It would be my intent that it should apply only to cars, Senator Syas. If we need...
